Serialization & Deserialization

Serialization: Converting an object or data st. into a format that can be transmitted or stored.

Deserialization: Converting searialized data back into usable object in code.

Client & Server may use different language. So, they need a common ground to talk. Also, memory object can't be sent over network.